Djibouti visa guide for Bangladeshi passport holders

How to apply: E-visa (evisa.gouv.dj) or visa on arrival · Last checked: 6 November 2026 · Online version: https://travelcsbd.com/visa/djibouti/

Djibouti requires a visa. UK government advice says a tourist visa can be bought on arrival (cash in US dollars) or applied for online through the e-visa portal evisa.gouv.dj or through a Djibouti embassy, and that you must show evidence of onward travel. The portal pages we could open did not show a fee table, so the fee, processing time and Bangladesh-specific rules are marked for confirmation. The UK government advises against all travel to the Djibouti-Eritrea border area. Last checked 6 November 2026.

Security warning

- The UK government advises against all travel to the Djibouti-Eritrea border and to parts of Djibouti. Regional military activity in the Red Sea has been noted in recent updates. Travelling against official advice may invalidate insurance. Travel Counsellor Ltd. does not recommend travel against official advice.

How to apply

- Djibouti's e-visa portal is evisa.gouv.dj; a Djibouti embassy statement says it is run by Djibouti authorities and e-visas are issued only by them. The portal page we opened showed headings only, so we could not read the fee or document list. UK advice also says a tourist visa can be bought on arrival in US dollars cash. Use only the official domain to avoid third-party service fees.

Total cost

- Government fee: not confirmed from an official page; third-party figures conflict and may include agent charges. Travel Counsellor Ltd. service charges, if any, are quoted separately in BDT by our office.

Processing time

- No official processing time was found. Apply online well before departure; do not rely on arrival purchase without confirming eligibility.
