Republic of the Congo visa guide for Bangladeshi passport holders

How to apply: Embassy visa before travel · Last checked: 6 November 2026 · Online version: https://travelcsbd.com/visa/republic-of-the-congo/

This guide covers the Republic of the Congo (capital Brazzaville), not the Democratic Republic of the Congo. UK government (FCDO) advice says a visa is required and must be obtained before travel through a Republic of the Congo embassy; the passport must be valid for the whole stay and a yellow fever certificate is required. FCDO advises against all travel only within 50 km of the border with the Central African Republic in Likouala Region. Arrivals may face Ebola-related health screening. We could not open an official Congolese page, so fees, processing time and the Bangladesh procedure are marked for confirmation. Last checked 6 November 2026.

Frequently asked questions

Is this the same as DR Congo?

No. The Republic of the Congo (Brazzaville) and the Democratic Republic of the Congo (Kinshasa) are separate countries with separate visa systems.

Do I need a visa?

UK government advice says yes, obtained before travel through an embassy. Confirm the Bangladesh procedure.

Is yellow fever vaccination required?

UK advice says a certificate is required at the border.

Is approval guaranteed?

No. Congolese authorities decide, and rules can change.
