Sudan visa guide for Bangladeshi passport holders

How to apply: Embassy visa; do not travel (conflict) · Last checked: 6 November 2026 · Online version: https://travelcsbd.com/visa/sudan/

SECURITY WARNING: the UK government (FCDO, last updated 11 May 2026) advises against all travel to Sudan because of ongoing military conflict, with only the Hala'ib Triangle and Bir Tawil Trapezoid at the lower level of all but essential travel. Ceasefires have repeatedly been broken, the British Embassy in Khartoum is closed, and evacuation is not being offered. For entry, UK advice says a visa is required and is obtained from a Sudanese embassy. We found no official page for Bangladeshi applicants and could not open a Sudanese embassy page for New Delhi, so Bangladesh-specific procedure, fee and processing time are marked for confirmation. Last checked 6 November 2026.

Security warning

- The UK government advises against all travel to Sudan because of military conflict, especially in Khartoum and other areas. Ceasefires have repeatedly been broken, there is no in-person British consular support, and evacuations are no longer offered. Travel Counsellor Ltd. does not recommend travel against official advice.

Official source checked

How to apply

- UK advice says visas are obtained through a Sudanese embassy. The Embassy of Sudan in Washington asks for a signed form, a passport valid at least 6 months, a photo and a sponsor letter from a certified organisation for business, work or humanitarian visas. We could not confirm the procedure for Bangladeshi tourists; contact our office or the Sudanese mission before paying anyone.

Partly verified

Processing time

- The Washington embassy page states up to 10 working days and that flight itineraries do not speed up processing. Not confirmed for Bangladesh.
